Wants clarification

Fincom zeroes mental health budget

Saying that it wants more clarification, the Wilmington Finance Committee has decided to vote a zero budget for mental health services in the annual town budget.

The committee came to the decision Monday night. The services under the budget item are those provided by the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, and SHARE, Inc. of Lowell.

The zero amount is not a final recommendation, but an attempt to bring forth more information on the services under the budget. Several meetings and hearings are scheduled between now and March 12, when the budget will be voted on the floor of the town meeting.

On Tuesday, the Finance Committee sent letters to the Town Manager, the Board of Health, and Health Officer Ernest Romano.

Romano said Tuesday afternoon that a meeting has been scheduled for the following Tuesday evening in the library for the agencies involved.

The Finance Committee will be holding a budget meeting with the Board of Health on Wednesday night, Feb. 2, in the library.

The budget in the past has been based on the amount requested by the various agencies, which was then tossed around and voted upon by the Board of Health and the Finance Committee. There has not been an assessment of the services needed in the town, to determine which services would be purchased from which agency.

In addition to the mental health services purchased by the Board of Health, there are also mental health services in the School Department budget. There has been talk of coordinating the two budgets, but no coordination.

Until this year, the town was included in the district served by the Solomon Mental Health Center in Lowell. A change by the state Department of Mental Health has grouped Wilmington with the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, a private agency that receives federal, state and local funding.

Wilmington Family Counseling Service is also a private agency, which last year was allowed $16,000 in the budget. That agency works on a fee for services rendered basis.

Variance denied on self-service gas station

Self-service gasoline isn't to be found in Wilmington. A recent decision of the Board of Appeals has denied an attempt by Gibbs Oil Company to introduce such a facility to the town.

The board denied an application by Gibbs Realty & Investment Corporation for a variance to its station on Main Street near Middlesex Avenue. The variance would have allowed the company to install a console desk, a cashiers window, and to install new pumps with the self-service feature.

The hearing was held in December, and the decision was issued on January 21. Gibbs was represented by Attorney Joseph Courtney and Chief Engineer Hosea Reis. The Board of Appeals members voting in the decision were Bruce MacDonald, William Caperci and George Robertie. The vote was unanimously opposed to the variance.

Under the existing Zoning By-Laws of the Town of Wilmington, all gas stations are non-conforming uses which may continue if they do not alter, extend or expand the basic use, except by approval of the Board of Appeals.

Neighbors Richard Jenkins of Dave's Fuel and R. Triglione, representing Anthony Triglione of Suppliers Auto Parts both went on record as opposing the change. They were concerned due to the possible fire hazard an dother actions of inexperienced persons using the self-service features of the proposed service station.

The Fire Chief went on record as having no objection provided that all state regulations were met.

The temperature was 12 degrees

Chris Briand will never forget the inauguration of Jimmy Carter. She stood within a quarter of a mile of Jimmy, and she froze, as did everyone else. The temperature was 12 degrees. The presidential box was heated, both by space heaters and by solar heaters, but that was all. There were thousands of people out there in front of the Capitol, sharing that 12 degree temperature.

Chris is the chairlady of the Wilmington Town Democratic Committee and she works in the Lowell office of Congressman Paul Tsongas. She was also a delegate to the National Convention of the Democratic party.

Chris had a "reserved" standing place, to watch the swearing in of Jimmy. That was one reason why she went to Washington. It isn't every day that a girl can get a ticket like that.

She left Boston the day before the inauguration. The Massachusetts people had a special train, and Chris was on that train. It was called the Peanut 2. It left Boston at 9:30 Wednesday morning, for a nine hour trip.

The trip took not nine hours, but 11. There was ice on the tracks, and the train had to stop many times because of the ice. The passengers just sat raound, and waited for the train to get going again.

Not that things were anything but comfortable. There were two dining cars, and there was a bar, so the passengers felt at home.

There were about 250 people - all from Massachusetts.

She had accomodations in Washington, waiting for her. It was easy to get there from Union Station. There was a party that night for Massachusetts people, at the Mayflower Hotel. That was where Chris went.

It was quite a party - Speaker Tip O'Neil, and Speaker Thomas McGee were two of those who were present. State Representatives were there - and Congressmen Moakley and Drinan. The Lieutenant Governor was there, too, and his daddy.

Thursday morning was clear - sunny but C O O O L D. The mercury was way down, in the thermometer. When Chris reports a 12 degree temperature, she was reporting the temperature at noon time, there in front of the Capitol.

First she was in Congressman Tsonga's office. There was an open house - with coffee and doughnuts, and Danish. All the people were from the Fifth Congressional District.

At 9 a.m. Chris left the office, to walk to her assigned place. The distance wasn't far, but it took an hour, just to get inside the enclosure. The crowds were terrific, and she had to wait to get through the gate. Everyone's ticked was checked - that was why it took so long.

Chris didn't get to her assigned standing room. She should have been closer to the President than was the press box - closer than the 150 yards where she eventually stood. It was close to the press box, but in back. She had a good view of the proceedings.

The swearing in was much shorter than she thought it would be. It was only a matter of minutes. Then Carter spoke - short, but very impressive.

And it took another 45 minutes, just to get away from that press box. Oh - was it cold, standing around!

She went back to the Cannon Office Building, where Congressman Tsongas has his office. She not only visited the Fifth District headquarters, but several other offices too - Congressman Udall, for whom she had worked in the nomination race, Lee Hamilton, from Indiana and Chris Dodd from Connecticut.

There was no problem for food. Every Congressman had an open house for the guests.

Like everyone else, Chris watched the Presidential parade - on TV! It was only a quarter of a mile away - but it was easier to sit in the office and watch the TV tube.

That night, of course, there were the Inaugural balls. There were eight of them, and Jimmy attended all.

Chris was in the Union Station, at the visitor's center. The entire area had been done over, at the entrance to the station. Chris thinks it's very nice.

There were thousands of people - the place was mobbed. There were the Massachusetts people, the Pennsylvania people, New Hampshire, Missouri and other states. Chris knew more than a few of the people.

There were two rooms, with several orchestras, and many well known singers. Plenty to keep a girl happy. Among the singers were Melba Moore, talented black, Dennis Weaver of McCloud, Hoyt Axton, a country and western singer, and Arlo Guthrie, a well known folk singer.

Jimmy, with his wife and daughter arrived at about 11:30 p.m. Chris could see him, but she was on the other side of the room, some distance away. The crowd went crazy over Jimmy. He was there about half an hour.

Chris was at the ball until about 1:30 a.m. and then she went back to her room. She was too tired for anything more.

She spent Friday and Saturday in Washington, visiting many of the places that were open for the event - the History and Technology Museum of the Smithsonian Institute, for instance, where there was a blue grass festival - a combination of western and folk singing. Many of those present were from the south, if one listened to their accents.

She also saw the Tut-Ankh-A-Men exhibit at the National Galery of Art. It is an exhibit which is not going to visit Boston. There was much of the furniture that was found in King Tut's tomb - gold, jewelry, statues, vases. The death mask, completely of gold, which had been put over the mummy's head, was on view.

The exhibit was set up like the actual tomb. Each room had an ante room in which there were exhibits and explanations of what was going to be seen. Quite a thriller.

Chris flew home, but says she just couldn't take it.

She slept for 24 hours, after she got home.

Election slate fills out

The town election has developed into a very interesting race. Some late entries have created some tight contests, and filled in slots where there had been little interest.

Of primary interest is the selectmen's race, which is now a race among five men for two seats. Bruce MacDonald, the chairman of the Board of Appeals and a former selectman, took out papers late last week and returned them within the deadline. The only incumbent in the race is James F. Banda. Chairman George Boylen did not take out papers. Other candidates are A. John Imbimbo of Cottage Street. Wilmington Police lieutenant, George W. Hooper of Allen Park Drive, the chairman of the Wilmington Housing Authority, and Peter Enos of Hillside Way, an associate member of the Board of Appeals.

A race which had no candidates a week ago now has three. Running for the three-year term on the Wilmington Housing Authority are Matthew Harris of Massachusetts Avenue, Kevin J. McMillan of Parker Street and Warren G. Newhouse of 185 Taft Rd. Another seat on the housing authority, a five-year term, has two candidates. Lorraine Brozyna of Boutwell Street and Elmer F. Parker of Forest Street. Mrs. Brozyna is an appointed member of the Housing Authority.

Wilson J. Belbin of Morse Avenue is the lone candidate for the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority, where a five-year term is open.

The School Committee contests have attracted seven candidates. Running for two 3-year terms are incumbent John Brooks of Salem Street, Lillian M. Buckley of Lucaya Circle, Paul R. Washburn of Ballardvale Street and Lester E. White of Marcus Road. White is an appointed member of the committee.

A one-year unexpired term on the School Committee has three candidates. David Dingle of West Street is a candidate for re-election. John C. Heine of Chestnut Street and James D. Tighe of Boutwell Street are also candidates.

Three candidates filed for Regional Vocational School Committee. William C. Cameron of Liberty Street, Robert A. DiPalma of Harold Avenue and Lawrence P. Flaherty of Hobson Avenue are all seeking a seat being vacated by Eugene Kritter, who chose not to run.

The only candidate for moderator is John M. Callan of Woburn Street, the incumbent.

Cain on commission for municipal problems

Rep. Fred Cain of Wilmington has been appointed to the special commission to study municipal problems, established under Chapter 3, Section 62 of the General Laws. Also appointed to the commission were Rep. Robert Vigneau of Burlington and Rep. Robert Buell of Boxford.

A sophisticated recording device for Wilmington Police?

Tom Casey believes that $900 is enough

Tom Casey, former chairman of the Wilmington Finance Committee seems to be of the opinion that $900 can purchase a recording device for use in the Wilmington police station that will do the work that is needed, in recording outgoing calls, over the radio.

Casey seems to be alone. The merits of the case were discussed January 29 by the Finance Committee, and other members seemed to feel that a recording device costing $9,000 would be better. It will record everything, telephone conversations and radio conversations, together with the exact time. The description is covered by the words "very sophisticated."

The point is that if a case does come up in which the time and/or other items that something happened proves to be of crucial importance the sophisticated $9,000 device would be the machine to provide the information. So the fincom was told.

There is such a recording device in the Andover police station, and the fincom was told that Chief Nicoll has praised it very highly.

A Personal Letter to the Citizens of Wilmington

From Diana C. Imbimbo

My father A. John Imbimbo is a candidate for selectman this year. As his daughter, I feel I must tell you about him.

I served on your school committee for six years. The people who entrusted me with this responsibility and honor were served with sincerity and, I feel, with effectiveness.

My father, who taught me by his example how to serve the community with true dedication, is seeking the office of selectman. His whole life has been service to the Town of Wilmington in his work as a career officer with the Wilmington police. His service spans over a period of 30 years. In those years he also found time to serve his community in other meaningful ways.

When he served on the Community Fund board of directors, personally canvassing the town during its annual fund drive. Also, when he served as Vice President of Wilmington Family Counseling, the time and effort he was called upon to expend, he did willingly.

When I was a teenager he was the juvenile officer. Each and every "kid" who came within his jurisdiction received the kind of treatmen that every "kid" wishes he could. He used understanding and compassion in dealing with their problems just as he did with his own children. He was known and respected by the young people of the town. They said "he was fair" and a few called him their "counselor."

As a member of the Town Employees Association, my father was entrusted with the job of loan officer in their credit union, which attests to the trust of his fellow employees. I remember how many times that phone rang throughout my youthful years - appeals for help in one way or another, not only police matters, but personal situations where citizens of the town trusted "John" for help and counsel. They knew he would help and keep their confidence.

It was an inspiring experience to group with a father who had the respect of his whole community and certainly was a strong influence in my life. To be worthy of that kind of trust, my first step was serving on the school committee, because I wanted to help with young children and teenagers. This to me was a way of carrying on my father's traditions.

He is a most qualified candidate to serve the best interests of the citizens of Wilmington. I know that A. John Imbimbo, if elected, will serve with sincerity and honor.

In this day of scandal and corruption in public office, they say a good man is hard to find. Wilmington has had one working for it for over 30 years.

I am asking the voters of Wilmington to give my father a chance to serve them on the board of selectmen. I promise his service will be excellent.

Sincerely,
Diana C. Imbimbo

New funding, Medford Ceta

Medford Ceta has recently received new funding under Title VI of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. These funds will be utilized to create new Public Service Employment positions within the 12 communities which comprise the Medford Consortium: Burlington, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn.

Persons interested in applying for these positions should file applications with the Medford Ceta Office, Old Medford High School, 22 Forest Street, Medford, Ma. 02155. Applications must meet the following eligibility requirements:

1. A person who has been receiving unemployment benefits for 15 weeks or more; or
2. A person who has been unemployed for 15 weeks or more but who is ineligible for unemployment benefits; or
3. A person who has been unemployed for 15 weeks or more and has exhausted all unemployment benefits due him or her; or
4. A person whose family is receiving AFDC, including AFDC-Unemployed Fathers under the Social Security Act.

All persons must be residents of the Subgrantee area and meet certain income criteria.

Individuals who have already filed applications with the Ceta Office should contact Donna Gillis (395-7990) or, preferably come into the Ceta Office, to check their eligibility under these new guidelines.

Ceta funds available

Salem Ceta has funds available for projects which provide new public services by employing Ceta workers. Government agencies and non-profit organizations serving the Salem area are eligible to submit proposals for projects of four to 11 months duration which:

1) Provide the community with an innovative approach to job creation by productively employing eligible unemployed persons.

2) Have a substantial impact on the economic, educational, environmental, social, or cultural aspects of life in the community by providing new public services.

Ninety per cent of the project budget must provide wages to Ceta eligible workers.

The proposal deadline is February 18, 1977. Proposals will be reviewed by the Salem Ceta office, the local Advisory Manpower Planning Board and the Chief Elected Official for the Salem Ceta Subgrantee, Mayor Jean Levesque. Those selected will be forwarded to the Massachusetts Balance of State Prime Sponsor Planning Council which, under the legislation, must approve final project selections. Final selection will occur in early April and projects will begin in May and June.

Project guidelines, details on submitting proposals, and application forms are now available through the Salem Ceta office at 744-3785. The Salem office will begin accepting applications for these Ceta jobs in February.

Tewksbury iced the game in the final period on a Doherty redlight from Tremlett and Mike Sarsfield's board lighter assisted by the hustle of Ricky Sheehan.

Mike Sarsfield highlighted the contest with his hustle and skating powers. Defensively Mike Chase, Bobby Corrieri and Mark Weitz held the opposition at bay, in front of goalie Scott Bonney kicking away many sure goals.

The Bantam B's lost two non league encounters to Lawrence, 3-2 and Reading 2-0.

Russ Barnes and Mike Chase played solidly on defense with goalie Scott Bonney manning the netminding duties.

Joe Capello, Bob Corrieri and Mike Chase skated strongly with miles of hustle despite the loss to Reading.

The Bantam B's dropped an 8 - 2 decision to Billerica last Sunday in a league contest.

Tewksbury played one of its best games, but breaks went the wrong way.

Billerica scored once in the first and exploded with three more in the second, all while Tewksbury was serving a 15 minute penalty. Danny Walsh came back for Tewksbury at the end of the second and scored on a Ricky Sheehan helper. Billerica scored twice in the third putting themselves ahead 6 - 1. Tewksbury answered once as Jim DiLuca tipped in a Steve Bucknam rocket shot. Billerica scored two more finalizing the scoring.

Travel At Ease

by Peggy Bender and Bea Sandler

Popular legend tells that the Shenandoah valley's name - an indian word - means "daughter of the stars." It may or may not be true, but the valley is a heavenly place.

The farms prosper, small cities, spacious and sparkling in the sun, impress a visitor from the other crowded world. The valley pike is the road to travel, the hills are rolling, and the Shenandoah shows both its age and its vitality. Streams flash, sunlight sparkles in the groves of willow and sycamore. And then of course, the Shenandoah valley is history, beginning with none other than George Washington himself.

With the celebration of our bicentennial just over this is a good time to visit many places in the United States. Let us at TRAVEL AT EASE, 378 Middlesex Ave., Rt. 62, Wilmington, 657-4121, 942-0494 help you plan for a trip to many historical spots. "Today's Pleasures are Tomorrow's Treasures." # TMHS athletes need School Addition

by Rick Cooke

The addition for Tewksbury High School that is currently being proposed by the school committee is not only important to the school's academic environment - but the athletic environment as well. Parents who have youngsters involved in the TMHS athletic programs should realize that the continuous school day that began in 1972 and continues today not only threatens the school's college accredidation and learning process. It also has had its effects on athletics at TMHS.

I experienced the results of the continuous school day first hand as I attended TMHS under this plan in 1972 and 1973. The overcrowded conditions at the school was the problem that resulted in the installation of the day that sees the seniors, juniors and sophomores all starting and finishing their respective school days at different times.

In playing any sport it is important to establish some sort of off the field relationship with your teammates. The first damaging effect of the school's situation that became readily apparent to me as a TMHS student was that the football team was being broken up into three groups during the school day. As a senior I rarely saw my junior or sophomore teammates in the hallways. When you are a part of a team the comraderie that exists on the field shouldn't stop when you remove the uniform and enter the classroom. I found that too much of the team was being broken up into classcliques due in large part to the continuous school day.

Now granted Bob Aylward has been able to reestablish that feeling of team spirit in the hallways. But it has taken a championship team and a tremendous effort on the part of the coaching staff to offset the problems caused by a high school where there is little available breathing room.

The school's coaches have been forced to work that much harder for six years in order to schedule practices for the kids, arrange their own schedules to be able to make it to practice themselves, and make the tough decision of just what talented sophomores should be placed on the now well known "sophomore schedule." This schedule allows that only a certain number of sophomores can try out for teams because of the late hour of their dismissal after starting school at noon time. Because the sophomores must spend some time in the classroom this presents coaches with yet another problem. If a sophomore turns out to be a star athlete capable of playing on the varsity how then do we arrange his schedule so he can get in some practice time with the junior and senior members of the team?

When I was at TMHS the athletes were not well known by much of the student body because the entire student body often never saw the athletes - thanks again to the continuous day. It is important that the athletes be known in order for them to take some pride in what they are doing. Everyone gets caught up in that ego trip of enjoying the feeling of being recognized by a number of people for playing a great game or scoring the winning touchdown. It has always been my feeling that a varsity player is the heart of what makes school spirit click. If he isn't known by the student body how can they become interested in going to the game to see him play?

Sure everyone was interested in a championship football team, but winning a championship should not be the sole reason for triggering school spirit. The interest in a high school team should be there from day one.

I suppose it is a bit maudlin to talk about school spirit today when so much of athletics is concerned with getting the job done - going about your business and that's it.

Unfortunately that's not it. School spirit is important and a large part of it was washed away with the continuous school day. Coaches shouldn't be asked to deal with a problem that could be alleviated by this plan. The students are denied the right to get in as much brain and leg work as they can before they graduate. They are also not coming out of that school as well prepared for college as they could be if the continuous day was abandoned.

An addition to the school seems to be a good way of alleviating the day as it is while getting the high school environment back to "normal." The parents of TMHS athletes who are concerned with the total development of their youngsters would be wise to attend the town meeting and make the important decision on the addition plan. As an avid sporting parent from another Merrimack Valley school asked me recently - "When are they going to junk that continuous day in Tewksbury?" Eventually I'll be able to give him an answer.

Planning cookie sales

Girl Scouts, meeting last week at the Tewksbury Methodist Church, plan their cookie sales.

At the table are Debbie True, Brenda Bjelgren, Kim Sanborn, Joyce Whitney, Christine Hancock, Faith Millward, Susan Sullivan, Ellen Wilson, Marybeth Durrance, Anne King, Angie Doucette, Julie Moore and Pamela L'Italien.

Standing are Jody Ravagni and Elizabeth Quinn

Girl Scout Cookie Sale begins Saturday

The annual cookie sale of the Merrimack River Girl Scout Council begins February 5 and will continue through February 19.

Junior, Cadette and Senior Scouts (girls in grades 4-6, 7-9 and 10-12) will be knocking on doors in the Merrimack Valley. Deliveries to customers will be from March 28 - April 15.

The order-taking process ensures freshness of the cookies. Interbake Foods of Richmond, Virginia, bakes the cookies for Merrimack River Council after the orders are sent in.

Mrs. William Seekins is chairman of the sale in Tewksbury and Mrs. Fred Jackson is chairman for Wilmington. Both voiced the hope that sales would be better than ever in 1977. She said that the troop keeps ten cents of every box sold, and that this money will be used entirely for the troop's own supplies, equipment and trips.

A portion of the sale profits will go into a campership fund. Girls who need financial help to attend camp can get assistance from this fund, and older scouts can get camperships to attend Girl Scout events all over the world.

Another share of the cookie profits will be used to develop and operate the council's campsites. Merrimack River Council maintains a resident camp, Camp Runnels, in Pelham, N.H. The council also operates three sites for day camping in the Merrimack Valley. These facilities are taken advantage of by 1362 girls each summer.

Cookies will sell for $1.25 per box, and five varieties will be available: shortbread, thin mint, peanut butter, sandwich cremes and peanut butter patties.

Slick oilers?

It's sort of like the Arabian oil sheiks, only on a smaller scale.

Several years ago in Wilmington, there were several independent oil companies, local companies owned by local people, or maybe by people living in a nearby town.

In recent years, though, the companies have been bought by larger concerns. Taking their customer lists, sometimes keeping the name, these companies in most cases have closed the local office, though sometimes keeping a local telephone number. In some cases, a local office has been maintained.

One homeowner has complained that in dealing with this larger scale of oil dealer, there is little satisfaction. In this particular instance, the company has refused to honor a service contract. Why? Because the homeowner has not bought enough oil from the dealer. They suspect that oil has been bought elsewhere, so they are calling the contract void. They also refused to sell oil even on a C.O.D. basis.

The question comes down to asking whether this is an isolated occurrence or whether this is a pattern. If other homeowners have had similar experiences, the Town Crier would like to know. Please put them in writing, and mail them to Box 460, Wilmington.

Presidential personalities

by Lisa Boivin

What kind of people are on top of the student government at T.M.H.S.? They are three of the most conscientious and inspiring people in the school, of course, otherwise they wouldn't have been voted into their positions by their peers, but there's a little more to them than that.

Sophomore president is Loraine Poisson. Her philosophy in life is to be "the best person you can be and to be yourself." She wishes all people would work together as one, starting with the High School. Loraine feels that if there was more trust in the students there would be more activities. She is a very outgoing girl and those are the kind of people she likes.

Cathy Squires is a bubbly type of person. "I take one day at a time. I'd like to go into physical therapy because I like working with handicapped children. I've been working with them for three years and I like the idea that I'm helping them in some way." As for the school, she would like to see more student participation and would also like to see more overall friendship in the world. Cathy likes everyone and it shows. Maybe she has found the secret to great popularity because she certainly has it.

The senior class president is Tommy Sullivan, a prospective art teacher. He also said that he would like to see more involvement on the part of the students, "If I could leave anything behind after graduating, it would be to make interest in the school spirit. Not just certain groups in the school who are always involved. The senior play which is going on now is giving the opportunity to be able to talk to people about something. People whom I just said 'hi' to before are talking to me about the play. I like it when people get together like that." Tommy likes to be an individual and he likes others to be independent also, and not to worry about what other people think.

MVC basketball

Wildcats topple Lions 60-47

The Wilmington High basketball fortunes took a dramatic step forward as their MVC play began last week at Chelmsford. Coach Bob Milley's team toppled tournament-bound Chelmsford 60 - 47 in a rare upset in this season of rather predictable roundball in the Merrimack Valley.

Chelmsford fell 60 - 47 but unfortunately the Wildcats reverted to form by dropping a pair of games to Dracut and Austin Prep that they could have won.

Nevertheless, the Chelmsford win proves that the WHS outfit can put it all together on certain nights.

Game details

Tuesday Jan. 5 - Wildcats 60, Chelmsford 47....

The Lions managed to peck away for a 26 - 22 first half lead as the offense struggled due to the absence of Lion stars Pete Lindbom and Pete Thompson - out with flu.

Illness had nothing to do with a third period that saw the Wildcats race to a 16 - 4 gap to put them in the driver's seat. Tenacious WHS defense and the hot shooting of Jim Stewart (10 third period points) did in Coach Jerry Schrock's club.

The Chelmsford shooting touch disappeared in that fatal third frame as they hit on just 14 of 45 shots for the game. Most of those misses that compiled a miserable 33 per cent came in that third period. While Chelmsford was sputtering the Wildcats were operating smoothly with Stewart taking dead aim on the cylinder.

Jim finished with 20 points while playing his best all-round game of the season. Tom Stewart came up with a 10 point effort while Steve Woods played a fine game at point guard.

Lanky Randy Foster contributed nine Wildcat points.

The Lions were led by George Klejaris and Chip Drapeau with 10 points apiece.

Wilmington outscored the Lions 16 - 13, 16 - 4 and 22 - 17 over the last three periods - losing only the opening frame by a 13 - 6 count.

Thursday, Jan. 27 - Dracut 76, Wildcats 57....

Hot-shooting Ed Caveney - perhaps the best pure outside shooter in the conference, destroyed the Wildcats with a 23 point performance in a makeup game at Wilmington.

Caveney busted open a game that saw Dracut owning a 32 - 29 halftime bulge. The Middies and their super-shooting swingman bolted for a 21 - 9 third period spread to go up 53 - 38 gap entering the final period.

Jim Stewart was the Wildcat mainman offensively with 15 points. Randy Foster had 10, and Bruce Butters came off the bench to score nine points.

Dracut guard Armand Sancartier helped Caveney as he popped home 14 points. The win improved Dracut's mark to 2 - 8 while WHS slumped to a 2 - 9 on the year.

Friday, Jan. 28 - Austin Prep 68, Wildcats 47....

The Wildcat offense just never got untracked as the Cougar offense clicked to bury the visitors.

Prep guard Ted Coppinger scored 19 points to break the school career scoring record previously held by Rich Melia. The smooth-shooting Cougar guard has scored 815 career points at the Reading school.

Jim and Tom Stewart finished with 10 points apiece for Wilmington.

Other WHS scorers were Pat Leonard (9), Bruce Butters (5) and Dave McMillan (5).

The loss dropped Wilmington's MVC record to 2 - 10.

Wilmington Adult Hockey League

Bulldogs 4 - Shell-Shocked 3

Joe Gedraitis fired in an unassisted tally from a scramble in front to break a 3 - 3 tie and give the Bulldogs an upset win over Shell-Shocked.

Two goal scorers were Greg Holden of the Bulldogs and Peter Tighe of the Shell.

Blues 4 - Cain's Reps 1

John Nowells had led the Blues to a four goal lead with a pair of scores while goalie Lee Black had shut out the Cainmen until Mike Esposito tipped in a Steve Winston pass for a late third period score as the Blues knocked of the Cain's Reps.

Bucko's 8 - Knights 5

In a wild shootout for first place, the Bucko's jumped out to a 7 - 1 lead scoring seven consecutive goals led by the hot hand of Ken DeMaggio's four goals and then had to hold on as the Knights finished in a flurry to score four third period goals led by Steve Dunley's three to make it close in the end.

Knights 10 - Shell-Shocked 3

The Knights rebounding from their loss to the Bucko's fired home six third period scores enroute to their 10 - 3 romp over Shell-Shocked.

League leading scorer John Davis had a big night with three goals and three assists while Steve Dunlevy picked up his third consecutive three goal performance.

Bucko's 7 - Blues 0

Ken DeMaggio continued his hot scoring streak with a pair of goals and Mike Gracia followes suit with two of his own while Roy Anderson was shutting the door on the Blues as the Bucko's won their third straight.

Bulldogs 9 - Cain's Reps 3

It was all Greg Holden as he had one of the hottest offensive nights of the year with five goals and two assists for seven total points to lead the Bulldogs over the Cainmen.

John Bowen chipped in with three goals of his own while Tom Walsh scored a pair for Cain's.

Midgets are second

After a 5 - 1 win over first place Wakefield last week, the Wilmington Midgets this week extended their winning streak to six in a row by beating Melrose 4 - 1, thus gaining sole possession of second place.

Wilmington got off to a slow start, but excellent goaltending by Skip Yetman kept the game scoreless until 4:59 of the second period when Melrose's DeYoung tipped the puck home to give Melrose a 1 - 0 lead. One minute later Billy Hanlon put Wilmington on the scoreboard when he blasted home a Jack MacDonald pass. Jim Butler delivered the game-winner when he connected with a Mark Lanni pass and scored with only one second left in the second period.

At the 9:10 mark of third period action, Joe LaLiberte, in heavy traffic, flicked in a pass from Mike McVicker to up the score to 3 - 1. Wilmington's powerful defenseman, Matt Kmon, topped off the scoring with a perfectly placed slapshot from the point, with the assist going to Billy Hanlon.

The heads-up defensive work of Brian Bulger, Peter Lanzillo and Al Lanni, as well as the aggressive play of forwards Jim Lax and Jim Laquidara also contributed to the win.

Bantam A's

Wilmington's Bantam A's played Peabody last Sunday to send them down to defeat 3 - 1.

The first period saw Peabody go on the scoreboard to take the lead 1 - 0. Wilmington came right back with Peter Gunn scoring with assists going to Tim McCann and James Burns to end the period 1 - 1.

Wildcats kiss tourney chances goodbye

The Wilmington High School hockey team won't be going to the Eastern Mass. Schoolboy Hockey Tournament this year. The Wildcats, who had been skating on thin ice for two weeks trying to avoid the loss that would eliminate them - finally cracked last week as they dropped games to Chelmsford and Austin Prep.

Billerica and Austin Prep are sure qualifiers for tourney play while Chelmsford and Tewksbury can each afford just one more loss. One of those teams will fall by the wayside tonight at the final buzzer of the Lion-Redmen match.

The Wildcats now find themselves in fifth place with a 7 - 5 record - just two points ahead of the Methuen Rangers.

The week began badly with a tough loss to Chelmsford - with the Cougars on the horizon ready to send the WHS tourney hopes packing.

Game details

Wednesday, Jan. 26 - Chelmsford 4, Wildcats 3:....

Chelmsford kept their flickering tourney hopes alive while tightening the noose on Coach Al Fessenden's Wildcats. Lion netminder John Tyros turned back 21 WHS shots to preserve the Lion win.

The Wildcats got on the board first however when Dino Esposito scored at 2:15 of period one. Ed Sheehan had the assist.

A Wildcat powerplay then produced no results as Tyros made a brilliant save. Paul Henderson then made it 1 - 1 with a tricky backhander that eluded WHS goaltender Paul Criscitelli.

Bob Clancy ignited a Lion rally in period two as he scored twice to make it 3 - 1. His second score was on the powerplay at 12:28.

Bob Field put Chelmsford ahead 4 - 1 with just 9:01 to play as the Wildcats looked finished. But with less than five minutes left the Wildcats scared the Lions with an offensive thrust.

Tom Gracia scored after a wild scramble in front of Tyros with 4:25 left and big Gordie Fitch made it 4 - 3 with just 3:03 to play.

Crescitelli was pulled for an extra skater with 30 seconds left and the Lions just missed putting the puck into the empty net.

Gordie Fitch had the final WHS scoring opportunity.

Saturday, Jan. 29 - Austin Prep 4, Wildcats 1....

The Wildcats never recovered from a first period that saw the Cougars score two power play goals for a 2 - 0 lead.

Brian Allen beat goalie Paul Crescitelli with a slapshot during a two man advantage while Tom Carr scored just 34 seconds later when he lit the light on a one skater Austin advantage.

Wildcat Brian Tighe cut the Cougar lead to 2 - 1 with 30 seconds left in the first period. Tighe tipped in a pass from Mike Carlin.

The second saw good checking by both sides as neither team scored.

Thom Lawler broke the Wilmington backs in period three when he took a pass from John McDonald to score at 5:22. It was Lawler's 17th goal of the season.

Carr scored on another 3 on 3 powerplay to make it 4 - 1 Austin.

Austin assists went to Lawler (3), Carr (2), Brian McNamara, and Tony Santullo.

Tom Bavota and Gordie Fitch missed most of the game due to injuries. Bavota suffered a leg injury when struck by a slapshot in the first period.
